

The Popcorn Theory of Success

Kevin J. Anderson, a best-selling science-fiction author who has published 125 books, will speak at the invitation of Bradley J. Birzer, the 2014-15 visiting scholar in Conservative Thought and Policy at CU-Boulder. The talk will cover persistence and opportunity and how Anderson went from being a fan and aspiring writer in a small Wisconsin town to one of the most recognized names in the genre.

Anderson's published books include more than 50 that have been listed as national or international bestsellers. He has written numerous novels in the Star Wars, X-Files and Dune universes, as well as a "unique steampunk fantasy novel," Clockwork Angels, based on the concept album by the legendary rock group Rush. Anderson holds a degree in physics/astronomy from the University of Wisconsin, Madison.
